AN ACCOUNT OF THE GERMAN HOSPITAL.

AMONG the number of Foreigners living in London, it is estimated that no less than six-sevenths, or upwards of thirty thousand, are natives of Germany. or of German Provinces subject to other States, These Germans chiefly belong to the humbler classes of society, a large proportion of them being poor but industrious mechanics and craftsmen, or hard-working labourers, employed as sugar-bakers, skin-dressers, skin-dyers, and in other occupations injurious to health; and there are, at all times, hundreds amongst them in want of Hospital relief. When admitted into the London Hospitals which are alike open and offer the same kind and careful treatment to foreign as well as native sufferers, the poor German sick are usually labouring under great disadvantages, from their being unable to express their wants and feelings to the Medical Officers and Nurses, and freely to communicate with their fellow-patients. But, either from want of room in these often overcrowded institutions, or from other causes incident to the condition of poor unknown and friendless strangers many unfortunate Germans afflicted with sickness, did not obtain the timely relief they would have had as inmates of a Hospital: and great has been the misery of many of them, when, destitute of the most necessary comfort, they were confined to their sick beds, if they had any, in a dark, narrow, wretched room or cellar, feeling themselves alone, when deprived of the soothing attention of their kindred and friends, or doubly unhappy, when surrounded by a distressed or starving family, dependent on them for support.

It may appear surprising, that, in this metropolis, which abounds in charitable Institutions of all kinds, attempts should not have been made sooner, more generally and more effectually to provide for the relief of such miserable sufferers. But it must not be believed, that the sympathy they deserve, or the will to help them, has been wanting amongst those who became eye-witnesses of their wretched condition, and especially amongst the German clergymen. It has long been considered as highly desirable, that a separate Hospital for the poor German Sick should be established, in which they might at all times be sure to be received, and enjoy the comfort of being surrounded by their countrymen, and also attended by Physicians, Surgeons, and Nurses speaking their own language, and of receiving advice and consolation from clergymen of their own confession, none of whom would perhaps have been able to find them out, or regularly to visit them, when lying sick in their habitations, or in one of the different Metropolitan Hospitals.

A proposal, tending to the establishment of such an Institution, was therefore, taken up the more readily, when, in 1843, it was made, accompanied by the cheering intelligence that His Majesty the King of Prussia had already expressed his lively interest in the success of such a plan, and promised his protection and liberal support. A Provisional Committee, composed of a small number of German gentlemen, was formed to deliberate upon the practability of the undertaking, and upon the manner in which it might eventually be best carried out. At the same time, the gratifying information was received, that Her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Consort had also signified their approbation of, and their intention to honour the proposed German Hospital with their protection and support; and it was also stated, that several eminent English Physicians and Surgeons who had been consulted on the subject, had given their opinion, that such an Institution would confer a great benefit on the poor German Sick. Had it not been for these encouragements, the Provisional Committee might have well nigh been deterred from proceeding in their labours. Many difficulties from time to time presented themselves, and after a protracted investigation of more than eight months, were eventually overcome; and the different plans in respect to the mode of establishing the Institution having been carefully weighed, it was considered best to abide by the original proposal. It had fortunately happened, that in the beginning of their proceedings, and while the Provisional Committee were anxiously looking for a house suitable for the intended Hospital, the extensive premises at Dalston, the former Infant Orphan Asylum, were offered for sale, and that one of their members had obtained the refusal of them. These premises were then inspected by the Committee, and having been found to be in every respect adapted for the Hospital, they were purchased at the moderate price of £3,000, which sum was liberally advanced, without interest, in equal shares, by his Majesty the King of Prussia, and two German merchants, members of the Provisional Committee. At the same time, they had also the good fortune to secure for the proposed Hospital the services of a Matron, and three Nurses, from the excellent institution at Kaiserswerth, near Düsseldorf on the Rhine, in which institution respectable Protestant females, who, from religious principles, have devoted themselves to the arduous task of nursing the sick, are trained, and on their probation, are called "Sisters" or "Deaconesses."

While thus occupied, the Provisional Committee continued to circulate addresses, asking for assistance in their undertaking, and pecuniary aid, in this country, and in Germany, and not without success. Having, as they thought, sufficiently matured their plan in all its details, they ventured to call a Public Meeting, to be held on the 18th of June, 1845, the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo. At that meeting, at which His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge presided, and which was attended by several of the foreign Ambassadors, and a number of English and German noblemen, clergymen, and gentlemen of distinction, the establishment of the German Hospital, on the plan proposed, was unanimously resolved, and the Provisional Committee required to continue in their exertions, to carry that resolution into effect.

Thus authorised, the Committee, which had lately been joined by several English gentlemen, zealous in the cause, lost no time in completing the repairs and alterations, and the arrangements of the house. The rules and regulations which they had prepared were approved at a General Meeting of the Subscribers on the 8th of September, 1845; at a subsequent General Meeting on the 9th of October, the Medical Officers were elected; and on the 15th of October, the birthday of His Majesty the King of Prussia, the German Hospital was solemnly opened for the admission of Patients, in the presence of His Royal Highness Prince George of Cambridge and a numerous assembly.

The anticipated usefulness of a German Hospital soon manifested itself. Within a few weeks after its opening, nearly all the beds in the wards were occupied, and they have all been filled ever since, while a number of poor applicants could not be admitted for want of room; and it was a pleasure to observe how well the inmates of the new Hospital appreciated, and how thankfully they acknowledged, the comforts which had been prepared for them.

It was, therefore, the more gratifying to find that the Provisional Committee were not disappointed in their expectation of a favourable result of their exertions, to interest a benevolent public, here and in Germany, in behalf of so useful an Institution. They gladly refer to the Subscription List, and the illustrious and respectable names by which in a short time it was graced; and they feel truly and gratefully happy, that, under a Divine Providence, the good work in which they had embarked had so far succeeded.

The German Hospital, though established and arranged on a small scale, is well adapted to the purpose for which it is intended. It is situated in a healthy and pleasant locality, and in the vicinity of that crowded part of the East end of London, where most of the poor and hardworking Germans are residing. The buildings contain four lofty and spacious wards, with ten beds in each of them, for the Male Patients, several rooms for the Female Patients, a separate set of rooms for the Sanatorium, a Chapel, and every other accommodation required for a good and complete Hospital. The large garden attached to the House opens a pleasant view, is a great comfort to the Patients, and can otherwise become very useful to the establishment. All the Medical Officers, the Matron, the Nurses and Servants are Germans. The Patients are regularly visited every day (Sundays excepted) by the Physicians, and, in their absence, are night and day under the care of the House Surgeon. The calm, quiet, kind and self-denying, but at the same time earnest and steady, manner in which the Nurses, and the Male Attendant, who has also been trained at a similar institution, and who assists them, exhibit in the performance of their duties, is calculated to have a beneficial effect on the feelings and conduct of the Patients.

The establishment is altogether conducted on the most liberal and tolerant principles. The Patients are at all times freely, and without recommendation, admitted to the Hospital when there is room. On their admission they are provided, when their condition requires it, with clean linen, and other articles of clothing; and on their discharge, the most needy receive some pecuniary aid from a Convalescent Fund. They can see their friends, at fixed hours, every day. No attempt is ever made to interfere with their religious opinions; every facility is given to the clergymen of their own creed to attend them. Most of the Patients and all resident in the House being Protestants, a Protestant Chaplain has been appointed, who officiates in the Chapel every Sunday; but no Patient, not being a Protestant, is required to attend that service.

The Sanatorium in the Hospital offers an accommodation to German Patients not belonging to the lower classes, who, being unmarried, or separated from their families and friends, may desire to have the comfort and benefit of being admitted and attended to in a room by themselves, either gratuitously, or, when able, on paying a moderate remuneration to the funds of the Institution.

To extend the benefit of the Hospital by affording to poor German Patients, not requiring Hospital relief, the advantage of obtaining advice and medicine from a German Medical Practitioner in their neighbourhood gratuitously, three German Dispensaries have been established, and are maintained at the expense of the Hospital. Two of them have been arranged in the East and West-end of London, and the third at Dalston, in the front wing of the House; and in order to show some mark of gratitude for the liberality of the British Public, in contributing to the support of the Hospital, poor English patients, living in the immediate vicinity, are allowed to have the benefit of that Dispensary, an advantage of which they gladly and gratefully avail themselves.

Considering the great number of indigent sick Germans, who, as it will be seen from the Medical Report, have, since its opening, been relieved, as In-door and Out-door Patients of the German Hospital, it will appear that, while many of them were thus kept away from the English Hospitals, more accommodation has been gained for others in those Institutions; but, no doubt, hundreds of poor Germans are still under the necessity of applying to them for admission, for want of room in the German Hospital, and it is much to be wished, that it may speedily be enlarged, and its arrangements made more complete to meet these exigencies, and, that by being supplied with sufficient funds for that purpose, it may maintain a respectable position amongst the Charities of this vast Metropolis.

ANNUAL REPORT
THE COMMITTEE OF THE GERMAN HOSPITAL.

MAY THE 31st, 1849, to MAY 31st, 1850.

THE Committee of the German Hospital present their Annual Report this year to the Patrons and Friends of this Institution, with feelings of peculiar satisfaction, and the deepest gratitude to Almighty God, who has blessed their labours with very encouraging success, not only as regards the state of their finances, which is fortunately such that the Hospital may be now considered as firmly established, but also with respect to the benefit which has, through its instrumentality, been conveyed to an unusually large number of poor sufferers.

From the financial statement it will appear, that the Committee have not only been able to defray the current expenses of the past year, and to pay the last £500 balance of the purchase-money for the premises, so that the Hospital is now free of debt, but that they have also been enabled to invest £1000 in  $3\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. Consols. This is in some degree to be attributed to the fact, that the Committee have concluded the sale of a part of their garden—which they mentioned in their last year's Report as being under negotiation—to the East and West India Dock and Birmingham Junction Railway Company, for which they received £1,400; but it must not be lost sight of, that it is not at all impossible, that the noise which will be caused by this railway may make it necessary, eventually, to remove the Hospital from its present locality; and as, by such removal, no doubt a very considerable expense would be incurred, it certainly would have been highly desirable if the Committee had been enabled to invest, instead of the £1,000, the whole sum thus received.

Among the regular sources of income, the Anniversary Dinner, which, under the presidency of H. R. H. the Duke of Cambridge, took place on the 7th of February, has proved unusually productive, the collection which was made on the occasion amounting to the considerable sum of £1,847 13s. 7d. donations, and £60 1s. subscriptions, including gracious donations from the Royal Chairman and H. R. H. the Duchess of Kent, as well as from their Majesties the Emperor of Austria, and the King of Bavaria, the Senate of the Free City of Frankfort on the Maine, etc. etc.

The Committee are most anxious to seize this opportunity of expressing their heartfelt thanks to H. R. H. the Duke of Cambridge, who on this occasion again proved his great attachment to the Institution, by pleading its cause in a most kind and impressive manner, and to whom, together with the unwearied exertions of the Stewards, the above satisfactory result is mainly to be attributed. The friends of the Hospital must further feel much indebted to the Right Rev. the Bishop of Manchester and the Rev. Mr. Day, the Vicar of Mucking, who have kindly preached sermons on behalf of the Charity; and thus, besides the highly satisfactory collections made at the time, have bestowed that much greater benefit on the Institution, that they engrafted, in a most impressive and eloquent manner a deep and lasting interest for the same in the minds of their hearers.

Of the Annual Subscriptions, which they are glad to say are on the increase, and among which they continue to receive the kind support of the West End Auxiliary Society, the Committee wish to draw the attention of the Governors to one particular species of them, namely, the Penny Subscriptions, of which £64 7s. 8d. are contributed by men working in Sugar-houses, who, either themselves or their friends, have been benefited by the Hospital, thus giving a substantial proof of how greatly the Institution is appreciated by them; and among the many donations, they wish to record their best thanks to Messrs Kessler and Co., at Esslingen, in Wurtemberg, who presented the Hospital with a quantity of wine, which the Committee have sold, and for which they received the net profit of £40, a gift which they regard as a most pleasing sign of the unabated interest felt for our Charity among our brethren in Germany.

It is through this combination of kind and strenuous efforts to support the hospital, that the state of its finances has been rendered so satisfactory; but on the other hand, the calls which have been made upon it during the past year have been much greater than any former. In saying so, the Committee not only allude to the fact, that during the time when the cholera was raging, two rooms which had been set apart for that purpose, were constantly occupied by patients seriously afflicted with that malady; but they also wish to point out to the Governors the considerable increase of the entire number of patients.

The increase is less striking with respect to the In-patients; of which there were 474 during the last year, and 419 in the previous, from the obvious reason, that there is a limited number of beds; these, however, were constantly filled; and judging from the many applications which from want of room have been necessarily refused, would have been filled many times, if the number had been as large again.

With respect to the Out-patients, on the other hand, where there have been no such limits, the increase of applicants has been very considerable, as the following table of comparison will show.

|                           | In 1848—1849. | In 1849—50. |
|---------------------------|---------------|-------------|
| In the Western Dispensary | 48            | 149         |
| In the Eastern ditto      | 504           | 960         |
| In the Hospital ditto     | 1176          | 1786        |

Of the last, the greater number have been poor English persons from the neighbourhood, making the total of In and Out-Patients in 1848, 2147; in 1849, 3369. The grand-total of Patients since the opening of the Hospital is 10,488.

The Committee in reflecting upon the immense mass of human misery which has thus been increasingly relieved by this Institution, call upon the friends of the Hospital first of all to give honour and praise to Him, whose blessing alone gives success to our labours; but they also call upon the friends of this Hospital to give due honour and sincere thanks to the unremitting and disinterested zeal of the Medical Officers of the Institution; the more so, as it is their reputation which attracts the applicants, and which at the same time places the German Hospital in an honourable position among the many excellent English charities; and it is only an act of justice which the Committee perform, when they state their high esteem and satisfaction, which they in common with the Patients, entertain for the valuable services of the Honorary Medical Officers, Dr. SUTRO, Dr. SWAINE, and Dr. STRAUBE, as well as for the unremitting attention of the House-Surgeon, Dr. BENEKE.

The Committee gladly avail themselves of this opportunity, thankfully to acknowledge the kind exertions of the two Medical Officers who formerly attended the Dispensaries, Mr. MARKWICK having resigned his appointment at the Western, and Dr. STEINAU, who since the establishing of the Hospital, had been most assiduous in his attention to the numerous applicants at the Eastern Dispensary, having returned to Germany; but their thanks are also due to Dr. HESS and Dr. ROTH, who have attended the two Dispensaries, ad interim, for the very efficient manner in which they have performed their duties, and to Mr. BRENNEIS, who has kindly lent his services as Dentist to the In- and Out-Patients at the Hospital.

The untimely death of the highly talented, and much lamented Mr. ASTON KEY, who was one of the Consulting-Surgeons of the Hospital, has deprived it of one of its greatest ornaments; but the Committee are happy to state that WM. COULSON, Esq., at their request, has kindly consented to become his successor.

The Committee have much pleasure in stating that the Hospital still enjoys the advantage of having trained nurses from the Institution at Kaiserswerth, and that they continue to give the greatest satisfaction; particular praise is due to the Matron, for the very able and indefatigable manner in which she performs the various duties devolved upon her, and the spirit of meekness and self-denying kindness which actuates her and the other sisters, is not only felt throughout the whole Institution, but in particular, is gratefully acknowledged by the Patients.

The Convalescent Fund has, on account of the peculiarity of many of the cases, never before proved so beneficial as in the past year; and the Committee, in expressing their best thanks to the generous founders and supporters of this valuable branch of the Institution at Manchester, would most earnestly request them not to relax in their kind efforts.

The very increased number of Out-patients at the Hospital Dispensary, has made the appointment of an Assistant Dispenser necessary, and through this, as well as the increased consumption of drugs, etc., in all the Dispensaries, an unavoidable addition to the general expenses has been caused, notwithstanding the many reductions which, through the very judicious arrangements of the Board of Management, have been made in other branches of the administration; and the Committee trust that they will be considered as justified if they, on account of the increasing claims made upon the Hospital, appeal to its friends for increasing support.

The Hospital having now, through a number of years progressively proved its usefulness, nay its utter necessity, it would be most painful to think, that all this misery which has thus, in a most satisfactory manner, been relieved, could ever in future remain unalleviated through want of means (an idea, however, which the Committee will not for a moment entertain as likely ever to be realised); nay, they must say more, judging from the past, it is pretty certain that in every successive year a greater number of applicants will present themselves; and there is little doubt, that the number of In-Patients would have increased in proportion with the Out-Patients, if there had been room, a fact which loudly calls for the enlarging of the Hospital as soon as circumstances will permit; in particular for Patients, who, on account of their diseases ought to be separated from the others; but although it does not seem to be advisable to undertake any enlargement, provided even that they had the necessary means at their disposal, before the effect of the Railroad has been ascertained, the Committee trust that when that time arrives, they shall not in vain appeal to the increased liberality of their supporters, and the benevolent public at large.

The Committee, before they close this their Annual Report, in which they rejoice that they have been able to draw attention to so many proofs of Divine blessing, have to perform one most melancholy duty in reminding their friends of the irreparable loss which this Hospital, in common with so many other charities, has sustained by the decease of one of its Protectresses, the ever to be lamented Queen Dowager, who from the commencement, proved by words and deeds the warmest attachment for this Institution; and the Committee trust, that the sincere admiration in which the memory of that pious and benevolent Queen is held, and ever will be held by all, both English and Foreigners, may have the blessed effect upon many, that they may hear within them the Lord's command:—

Go and do thou likewise!

In the name of the Committee,

A. WALBAUM, Hon. Sec.

June 27th, 1850.

GERMAN HOSPITAL.

AUXILIARY FUND.

IN October, 1845, was opened at Dalston, near London, an excellent Institution called the German Hospital. Its object is, to provide a refuge in sickness for poor natives of Germany, who are found to constitute a very large proportion of the foreign population in London. In this Institution, the Patients have the comfort of being surrounded by persons speaking their own language, and the great advantage of being under the care of medical attendants and nurses who know their habits, and to whom they can, without difficulty, express their wants and ailments. They are visited also by German clergymen, from whom they can receive the consolations of religion in the well-known accents of their fatherland, and their childhood's home.

Any one picturing to himself what it is to be in London—penniless, sick, friendless, unknown, and unknowing, can easily imagine what a blessing such an Institution must be to those whom it takes under its protection. Nor has the reality disappointed the hopes of its benevolent founders. Already to many it has been a most welcome refuge, and its visitors may often see in the looks of its inmates, their joyful sense of the benefits which they are receiving.

But in addition to shelter and relief in sickness, it has been found that they who leave the Hospital restored to health, not seldom need a little timely aid while looking out for some means of supporting themselves. Often, however, earnestly desiring and diligently seeking, they cannot immediately procure employment. How then, in the interval, are they to live? If married, and with a family dependant upon them, the difficulty and distress of their situation become still greater. Whatever may be their wish to preserve their independence, and whatever their consequent readiness to engage in even the hardest labour by which they may earn an honest maintenance, yet they may feel themselves compelled at last to solicit from charity the bread which they have no opportunity of obtaining by industry. And having once begun the practice, some of them, perhaps many, losing by degrees their sense of its shame in their experience of its gains, may sink down into a life of confirmed and degraded beggary.

To prevent so undesirable a result, as well as to complete the good work for which the Institution was intended, it is proposed to raise a SEPARATE FUND, for the purpose of furnishing a little assistance to those of the Patients who, on leaving the Hospital, are not able immediately to find employment. It is believed, that thus will many an honest and well-principled mind be spared a most severe trial, while in no case will the transition be so painfully abrupt, as it otherwise frequently might be, from the comforts and kindness experienced in the temporary home of the Institution, to the forlornness of an unaided search for the means of subsistence in a land of strangers.

It may be known to some readers of this circular, that there is already in London a "Society of Friends of Foreigners in Distress," and it may be thought, in consequence, that provision is thus sufficiently made for such a purpose as the one just mentioned. But this Society, though of great excellence and utility, is precluded from taking charge of many cases for which aid of the kind described might be greatly needed, by requiring from claimants on its bounty, proof of a six-months' residence in London. What is desired in connection with the German Hospital is, the power of granting such further assistance as may be necessary to those whom it restores to health, irrespectively of the time which they may have already been in this country.

To provide the means of this additional aid, it has been calculated that about £200 per annum will be required;—no very large amount for the extent of benefit contemplated, nor unreasonably much to hope from the benevolent among the wealthy, for preventing those who may be healed of their sickness, from afterwards perishing, or at least severely suffering, through hunger and nakedness.

It is proposed that the requisite fund shall be raised by donations and annual subscriptions, which will be thankfully received by either of the undersigned Secretaries, or by any one of the ladies whose names are appended to this circular.
